JUSTICE DYKMAN RELAPSES, DIES

Contracted Bronchial Pneumonia Just Before Christmas and Succumbed When Recovery Seemed Assured.

HAD BEEN ON BENCH MORE THAN 25 YEARS.

Judicial Career Showed Great Judgment and Discretion, Absolute Fairness and Impar-

Former Supreme Court Justice Jackson O. Dykman, one of the oldest and best known jurists in the State, died toay at his home on Broadway at White Pains. He was seventy-cight years Justice Dykman died suddenly and peacefully. Just before Christmas he contracted bronchial pneumonia and though he recovered he had a relapse yesterday, and Dr. Schmid was sent for Justice Dykman, who was an expert whip, and despite his advanced age drove daily up to the time of his sick-ness, had resided in White Plains for forty years. Two of his sons are noted lawyers, Henry T. Dykman, Corporation Counsel, at Mount Vernon, and Civil-Service Commissioner William N. Dykman, of Brooklyn.

In 1875 he was elected Justice of the Supreme Court for the Second District. He was supported by both parties and his majority was 12,000.

For more than twenty-five years he sat on the bench and his judicial career was a marked one, as he always showed sound judgment, discretion, kindness, absolute fairness and impar-tiality and a wide and deep knowledge of all branches of the law. Judge Dykman had a long and happy married life. Mrs. Dykman was formerly Miss Emily L. Trowbridge, of Peeks kill. Supreme Court Justices and lawyers from all parts of the country wil attend his funeral, the arrangements attend his funeral, the arrangements for which have not yet been decided.

"My father never recovered from his attack of bronchial pneumonia." said Henry T. Dykman to-day. "He suffered from a relapse and general debility hastened his death."
Judge Dykman was born in Paterson, Putnam County, and was a descendant of one of the earliest settlers. His great-grandfather was a captain in the Continental army. Choosing law for his profession, he entered upon the study in the office of Judge William Nelson, of Peekskill, and after being admitted to the bar he began the practice of law at Cold Spring. Then he entered the political arona, and at a youthful age was elected School Commissioner and later District-Attorney of Putnam County. In 1868 he was elected by the Democrats as District-Attorney of Westchester.

GOUT KILLS OLD MAN.

Curious Case Which Has Interested Many Medical Men.

Charles Scharff, sixty-one years old, of No. 354 East Fifty-fourth street, died last night in Bellevue Hospital from gout. His case had been so curious that he used to be exhibited before that he used to be exhibited before students and lectured about by professors of medicine.

In Scharff's case the disease caused unusually large excrescences in the flesh, not unlike tumors, which gradually absorbed his vitality and eventually caused his death. He was a caller at the hospital for treatment and walked in on his visits up to Monday when he had to stay.
